Back in 1997 my husband and I decided to work from home and started a business called, Internet Businesses. Our primary purpose was to make a living making money from home. Unfortunately, we did not get the results we wanted, and we could not find how to work at home. By the time we gave up our life, our daughter was three months old. To add to our problem, there were no books, courses, or mentors that were very clear on how to work from home. We were about to give up. Until a day when I read about a woman, Lois Parsley, who had a successful work-at-home business. Lois and her husband founded Peak Performance Coaches in 1998. Almost a decade later, their work-at-home business has transformed thousands of people in the United States and abroad. They have also expanded to Europe and Australia, and that's just what their parents had done when they started in their business. In this book, Lois describes the road that brought them to where they are today. She shows you how her business began, and how it has grown. She also shares her entire business. It is yours, too, if you read and use it. And you too can have a work-at-home business to create a flexible career and make a great living. This book will help you get started and grow your business.
