Speech-language pathologists' views of the current structure and future of public health in the workplace. The general purpose of this qualitative study was to explore the opinions of public health speech-language pathologists (SLPs) regarding the current structure of public health in the workplace and the potential future structure of this service. Two focus group sessions with SLPs from the Monterey Peninsula Area Vocational Program (PVAC) were conducted. Demographic information of the participants was collected and their opinions regarding the workforce, economic issues, clinical practice, collaboration, and training received in the state public health agency were recorded and analyzed. Qualitative themes identified in the focus group included the importance of the worker and the worker's right to be paid for the services delivered, increased collaboration between public health and the mental health community, and an improved role in the treatment of communicable diseases. In the future, there were identified potential changes to public health delivery that will need to be considered. For example, the lack of wage issues for the worker may need to be addressed, as these workers are paid for their work, even if it is in a different service with different wages. Another change would be to increase collaboration with the mental health sector as there are overlapping services that can be delivered by the two sectors.18F-fluorodeoxyglucose positron emission tomography (PET)/computed tomography (CT) in osteosarcoma: accuracy and specificity of diagnosis, impact on therapy and role in differential diagnosis. Tag Archives: bullion prices Bullion prices have plummeted since April, but do not panic if you are thinking of getting into silver and gold, as it may be the best time to buy bullion for a number of reasons. The UK economy is still in deep trouble, so investing in bullion may be a safer option in the long term than putting your money into stocks. The Bank of England has decided to turn off the printing presses and has banned gold and silver trading for the moment. They have also made it illegal to buy and sell bullion in the UK. With a quarter of the world's gold held in the UK, they cannot be certain of securing any of it if the situation gets worse. They have therefore made it very difficult for regular people to buy gold and silver, so that the only option that remains for them is to invest in ETF's. So, the situation in Europe and the US may not be so bad when it comes to the economy but in the UK it could get very serious in the very near future. One of the biggest reasons to buy gold and silver is for protection. If the financial crisis does get worse, you will be protected in terms of the value of your money. In a time like this, it is important to protect your assets, and having some gold or silver and gold bullion might just be the best option that you have. Currently, the price of gold is sitting at just under $1100 per ounce and silver is at $23.60. You can get up to 1 oz of gold and silver at a time but the value of silver and gold keeps on going up so you can buy more and more at any time of day. If you invest in gold and silver in the next few days, you could be safe, and they could also be incredibly
