[More Info] WWE Superstar Seth Rollins took to WWE.com this morning to address the story, "Look at the Man: Seth Rollins Cut a Video Praising Christ," released yesterday. After stating that the video was "just a fun thing" and that "I never really consider myself to be religious or have a stance on religion," Rollins did offer a clarification. I hear there's a video of me talking about Christ on WWE.com. It wasn't meant to be taken seriously. I'm only 22 years old. I haven't been with WWE for very long. It was meant to be a fun thing, and it came out yesterday and I didn't even know it until I saw it. It was just a fun thing, and I think everyone should enjoy their own faith. When I did the video I was in my room and I was just having fun. I took the idea of a Superstar having faith and I did that. As far as religion goes, I wouldn't know where to start, so I have never really done much religious at all. I'm more of a man's man. I'm not the type to sit down every Sunday and talk about what I did for the Lord, but I think everyone should enjoy their faith as much as I do mine. I wanted to say a couple of things. First of all, I want to apologize to everyone who was offended. It was a mistake. I made a mistake. I'm 22 years old. I'm not a preacher. I'm not a preacher. I just did a funny thing. I didn't mean to offend anyone. I hear people talk about religion and I don't know how to explain it any better than that. I'm not a preacher. I'm not a preacher. I don't preach. I just do it for fun. And I do it to make my point. When I talk about religion, I try to say things from my life.
