How to Get Started Visit the official website for more information. Meet the developers Meet the developers who created ELGREING at the official event site. Developer Highlights The program directors that worked on ELGREING are active within the development team that is making LIEGE in Osaka on March 11. The two projects share a similar design style, feel, and basic gameplay elements, but they differ in a variety of ways. ELGREING is a more action-oriented RPG, while LIEGE is a strategy game. The former focuses on the player's combat skills, while the latter requires clever use of passive techniques to dominate enemies. The following are characteristics and differences between the two games. Characteristics and Differences • New Fighting System ELGREING: The new fighting system is a fast-paced and simplified action RPG. You can freely attack using a combination of 4 attack animations with different strengths. Both dagger/sword and gun techniques are available. LIEGE: In LIEGE, you need to use the most suitable techniques to defeat enemies based on what kind of monster they are. The more you use it, the more your character will evolve. • Various Classes ELGREING: You play as a strongman, who unleashes the power of the Elden Ring on the field of battle. The following techniques are available: Sword, Hammer, and Shot. LIEGE: There are 3 classes: Fighter, Mage, and Dark Mage. In addition to a variety of equipment, each class has a specific usage of passive skills such as parry and teleportation. • Unique Skill System ELGREING: With a combination of 4 attack animations and a unique weapon system, you can freely switch your technique to attack or defend at any time. LIEGE: Each class has its own passive skill that can boost the use of passive skills. In addition, classes can have their passive skills upgraded through item creation. • Real-Time Battle that You Can See and Feel ELGREING: With ELGREING, you can easily see the battle actions of a monster on the screen. You can attack it at any time, and you can feel the
