[2022-Latest]

There is a rumor in a different world of existence, in which a prophecy that long ago foretold the arrival of a savior who would unify the two worlds. However, the prophecy assumed, that the savior would be born from the hearts of all the people of the world. The hero who will fulfill the prophecy was born from the heart of a Fictional character called Avery Waters, who was cast as the main character in a Japanese TV Series called “Kekkon no Kimi e no Imi ni” (The Hero Who Can’t Forget the Name of the Ruler). Along with the casting in the series, the company responsible for the TV Series directly contacted the author of the story and asked them to make a story where the main character would appear in the TV Series, so that they could develop a game featuring the main character. At the time of the request, the author of the story did not have the highest expectations about the possible development of the game featuring the main character, but as soon as he realized that the request was sincere, he started to write a story that would be an honest representation of the Fictional character. In the

As the voice actor who provided the demo let them know the state of his health and asked for a little more time to prepare, the company continued without pause, making the casting a priority as a main point in the development of the game. In the meantime, a TV Series was broadcasted in Japan and it was reported that the voice actor (the only one who worked on the series and the main character) had been injured in a motorcycle accident and so at the time of the casting, he had a noticeable disfigurement on his face. A deeper and more accurate interpretation of the character was born, and the voice actor who provided the demo was able to draw upon that and provide an all-encompassing performance of the main character. The voice actor, who portrays the main character in the story, voiced the character through their eyes, but expressed intense yearning for to prove themselves. Furthermore, the main character's

What's happening to me?!E Tarnished exclaims, standing in front of the TV with his hands held up to his head, palms facing inward. Recovering from its attack, the TV stops broadcasting the live report of the latest case of The World Eating Forest monster. As Tarnished tentatively steps forward, he is greeted by a familiar sight. Grimlock; a handsome houndboy the size of a full grown three-headed dog with a head that resembles an insect. The people of the Leaflet Village, the small town he was playing in, pass away softly in the background. Apparently, he'd fallen through their roof of his tiny house and then had the roof fall on his head. Lucky. He's alive. Tarnished is frozen in shock. It's cheating and it's not a very nice way to handle things. If you buy the currency you can have fun making that accumulation of game currency work for you, or if you don't feel like learning the game's mechanics, or maybe even if you are a mere mortal that you just want a few cool things, by all means buy the currency.
