Category:Autodesk Category:British film studiosQ: Django-CMS: How to optimize a section with a template Basically, I want to optimize this {{ feature.content }} to something like: {{ feature.content }} But I don't want to write it twice, I want to write it once and use it in several sections. Is there a good solution for this? A: If I understand your question correctly, you want to be able to include the same template in multiple CMS pages. Here are a couple of solutions I've used in the past. If you are building the entire site from scratch, you can use a smaller template which loads the other templates you need. One of the main benefits to this is that you don't have to load up a new database each time you load the page; it can all be done in the database. This blog post has a really good example of what I am talking about. class FeatureCMS(object): def __init__(self): self.categories = Category.objects.all() def get_template(self): if 'features' in request.path:
