This is a client I wrote in the „A“ language prog dll 1.0.0.0. WinBox prolonged negotiations with creditors, it appears that the one thing the markets can't stand is uncertainty, and this week has added a newfound sense of concern over Greece. Greece's newly elected president, Dora Bakoyannis, will be sworn in this Sunday, putting an end to 5 months of uncertainty. When asked if a new government can be formed, perhaps by today, she stated she expects to be able to form a new government by this Friday, although she then added that the opposition will not fall into line, yet, that is not what caused the concern in the market this week. What was cause for some concern is that the newly elected leader, who is a strong supporter of the triska of creditors, never before was running for the leadership, and that she stood by her predecessor's hands-off approach to the crisis. The markets reacted with surprise when she took the stance that she doesn't believe in austerity.
