DOJ Budget Redacted The Department of Justice's budget was released this afternoon, and it was redacted in key areas, causing a bit of a kerfuffle on the Hill. A couple of provisions that were redacted have been brought up before the Subcommittee on Criminal Justice, Drug Policy and Human Resources, and they need a response. First, one of the provisions is Section 9 of the Justice Investment Act of 2015 (S. 1589), which provides for a Reorganization Office at the Department of Justice that would consolidate a number of General Services Administration (GSA) sites and reduce the number of GSA facilities to 75, to be managed by the Department of Justice. The list of facilities, which were once estimated to be approximately 14,000 square feet each, had swelled to approximately 47,000 square feet when the bill was released. ### What's New In Sleepy Timer?

Sleepy Timer is a task manager for Windows. It easily turns any task into a scheduled shutdown. Sleepy Timer does have some downsides, mainly that it can only be installed on a system where shutdown rights are granted. You'll need to run it as administrator and have it run in task manager. It also takes a few minutes to install, making a quick reboot the best option. It has a crash bug that causes the program to crash every once in awhile, usually when you set a shutdown time. Try not to use the program until this is fixed, which I am working on. A reboot usually fixes it. You can subscribe to our newsletter for an update of new apps as soon as they become available.
