"The combat system is made up of many different systems - melee, ranged, magic, and so on. There are many different skills that you can develop. Each individual moves on its own skill, but there are some that will create even easier or harder movements, changes in speed, and so on. All of the different skills are connected to different abilities: if you develop a skill that works off of magic, then you will have a different set of skills that will be related to magic. Skills can be improved, rebalanced, and changed, and can be used according to your own setting, so it becomes a truly unique action RPG. The action system is also well executed. There are different commands that you can use to direct different attacks at the enemy or different skills. The commands for the skills that have to be used in close range is different than the ones for the skills that can be used at a distance. With the different types of weapons, you can choose which one will be used to do which type of attack. You can also use different weapons by combining them in certain types of attacks, which brings even more variety to the system. The movement system is extremely fast and dynamic. Sometimes you have to jump over, run to, or use a certain ability and then move back. It doesn't matter where you are in the world, the game will find the way to get to the action and move you there. The stats are very different from the previous game in that they aren't as complex. Each stat can either be increased or decreased as you choose, so you can build the different types of characters that you want. The many abilities and the different skills that you can choose to develop make the combat system very unique and interesting. There are different classes that you can have, but you can freely switch between them during combat. You can choose which special moves and abilities you want to be used in certain situations. There are some that have multiple uses in combat, and you can use them to your advantage. The different items that you can equip are easily varied. It's not the case that you have to have a sword and a shield, because there are different types of items such as axes, spears, swords, bows, and so on. The classes and the types of skills are very easy to understand and use. You won't get lost while playing the game." - Ratompi.info bff6bb2d33
