It's a part of the bigger project we have been working on this year. One of the biggest goals to reach in 2018 is to raise awareness about the dangers of not checking the scam diagnosis and just going for it. So we started this fundraiser campaign to get people to donate and help girls have a better day for themselves. We've had some small donations so far and we are so happy but there is still so far to go. Instead of just having one or two girls, it's more like to have 20-30 girls who have had issues with the scam or they are just not sure how to take a good look in the mirror. Only sharing the struggle, we are a part of that struggle as well. About Me The girls behind this website have spent a lifetime on understanding the business of beauty. Scarn and Ghelspad are the provinces of a land plagued by monster revolts and cursed lands. Will you help the people of the Republic of Grgad and Ghelspad resolve issues of the land, or will you stick closer to home, hunker down, and hunt for hidden treasure? Who will you fight? When will you fight? All decisions are key to your experience and the shape of the story. A Major Decisions Based Campaign: Start as a hireling on a contract with the Republic of Grgad. Discover your people are under siege by a mountain-sized creature. Make tough calls, learn their weaknesses, and be prepared to defend them. As the adventures continue, you might find you've drifted a bit from your start or become caught up in the fights to rid the land of the monsters. Be sure you help out where you can and play your part in the journey. Play multiple characters: Complete different contracts and work your way through the game, or use the same character but play in multiple roles. Play as the leader of your party, the hired hand, or the Medic. Some players enjoy playing a character for a month then moving on to another and another. Maybe start the game with one character, and as they gain more experience, they develop their playstyles and get better at what they do. New Playbooks: Over the course of the campaign you'll need a variety of playbooks to make the best use of all your skills. Power, social, and bluff playbooks will impact your relationships, your tactical decisions, and the success of your characters. Playbooks change your actions. Choose your classes wisely, and be wary of where your abilities most effectively apply. Procedurally Generated Adventures: Each adventure in The Scarred Lands Player's Guide is procedurally generated. This means the adventure, and your experience playing it, is different each time you play it. To add to this, each experience you play will be different. Each party will be different. Each adventure you play will be different. Be on the lookout for interesting situations. Endings, Characters, and XP: Each character is unique, and will likely have their own story arc. Your overall experience is also shaped by your level. Every character has a base Level (as calculated by the Guide), a number of Experience Points to spend, and a Level Cap to reach. As you gain experience, your Levels and the skills you have become

Love Menu About Ancient Labyrinth is the blog of the Head Usher of the University of Bath, House 1 Convenient Lodge. Blogs and schedules contain many things with unrelated odds and ends (Murphy’s Law) but the Ancient Labyrinth is not your general account diary. If I ever get around to writing a book, you’ll be the first to know. Links and contacts are, perhaps, less interesting than posts and the Blog itself. If you add a link, I may have had a cup of coffee this morning and intended on talking shit about it. Feel free to share your site(s) and ask to be added but don’t feel bad if I ignore you. This is just a general site and the name Ancient Labyrinth is not a joke or an indication to our time-travelling capabilities. It is, however, linked to our awful sense of humour. Post navigation More than a few people have pointed out that the title of this entry clearly says something about what we’re not blogging about - it’s impossible to say what it actually means here because that is exactly what this blog entry isn’t. So here’s the abbreviated version. Since its launch on 1 July 2009, Ancient Labyrinth has been a place of escapism. The Ancient Labyrinth is the blog name, the place where I can create the dreams of my own childhood without the nightmares of recent years. You’ll find out more about it as you read on. What is escapism? Me reading your mind very much. It involves escaping the real world and getting lost in a fantasy. In my case, it is the search for escape routes into Dreamworld – a concept that needs a little explanation. For some people there is a deep dissatisfaction with the present. They have problems within their social responsibilities. These people have real responsibilities but somewhere they are unable to express themselves, unable to genuinely interact with their peers or even with a religion that is supposed to be mutually exclusive to their own. For others, there are unaccomplished or undefined dreams. There is a desire to do things their parents never did; the kind of things that don’t make real sense until they’re done. For some, the dream may be creating your own action movie; as an ice-lady, perhaps capturing the true essence of the film Star Wars as the background beat
