xforcekeygenMaya2016x86x64 .Q: Issue with setting up NGINX for Python Requests and Flask app New to NGINX and Python. I'd like to set up a NGINX server which provides reverse proxy. I'd like to point my Python Flask application at this NGINX server. I'm trying to get a sample Python Flask app that routes to an external service using requests to work. I've been unable to make it work. When I run the application, I get an error. If I disable the NGINX config, I get a warning, but get the sample application to work. The NGINX config file looks like: server { listen 80; server_name www.mydomain.com; location / { proxy_set_header Host $http_host; proxy_pass } } My Python app runs this test script (after creating a default Flask application):

from flask import Flask, request, redirect, url_for, render_template from flask import Flask, url_for, render_template import requests app = Flask(__name__) @app.route('/') def index():
return render_template('index.html') @app.route('/test') def test(): response = requests.get('') return response.text if __name__ == '__main__': app.run()

Running the code gives me a 503, and when running the nginx error log, gives me:

2018/03/07 18:54:30 [error] 24#24: *6082817 access forbidden while handling request at /home/share/www/mydomain.com/test", referer: ""

Any ideas? A: Make sure to use the same port for your app as in the nginx configuration. And remove the requests prefixes from the code.

import requests

like to set conditionally. The problem is the interface doesn't have a default constructor so I cannot do this:

this.MyList.Add(new SomeType() { SomeOtherProperty = "Property1" });

I thought of doing a custom class for this but I get the following error: The type of one of the expressions in the join clause is incorrect. Type inference failed in the call to 'Add'. I tried with the following code but no luck.

if (someBool) {
    this.MyList.Add(new SomethingElse() { ...
```

A: This is called a "conditional null check", and is arguably simpler than implementing a custom type.

var something = SomeType.GetType() ==

null? new SomethingElse() {... } : new SomeType();

The struggle to build a care system for people with learning disabilities in the Netherlands: changing practices and finding solutions. In the Netherlands, people with learning disabilities (LD) receive most of their care and support from a home care service (HCS) provided by special education services in schools. This care system focuses on the development of activities of daily living (ADL) in that it stresses on the improvement of personal competence and on participation in daily life. The main goal is to enable people with LD to live in the community, which means that they will be able to move around freely, participate in daily life, and express themselves fully. This care system is not readily transposable into other countries. In the Netherlands the rapid changes in care practices resulted in a process in which the policy makers decided to reform the care system for people with LD. The purpose of this 6d1f23a050
