I'm building a calculator app. I'm new to java and I'm trying to get the simple thing working. I am not using any library. I am using android studio. This is a simple gui app. I have 2 buttons, which are simple EditText. 2 problems. I do not know how to call a method on click of a button. Is this possible? I am not sure what is the best way to create my GUI.

Would you suggest using xml or simple layout. A: Simply call myMethod() when you call button1.setOnClickListener(this). MyMethod should be in your Activity that is passed to that OnClickListener. Photo courtesy of the U.S. Air Force/U.S. Navy

The U.S. Navy acquired 37 F-35C Lightning II aircraft on August 4, along with associated aircraft parts and ground support equipment from Lockheed Martin in addition to a two-year payment of $917 million. Lockheed Martin's F-35C is a single-seat variant of the F-35, a fifth-generation multirole fighter, produced by the company. The U.S. Air Force, U.S. Marine Corps, and U.S. Navy have delivered, or plan to deliver, more than 300 F-35s to the U.S. government and international allies. The Navy's first F-35C squadron, Electronic Attack Squadron ONE TWO (VAQ-132), will join the U.S. Marine Corps' VMFAT-101 in 2016. The agreement to acquire 37 additional F-35Cs will reimburse Lockheed Martin $917 million for the aircraft, plus a two-year agreement to supply all of the services required for maintain and support, and the ability to deliver up to 75 flight hours of test and evaluation per aircraft, plus ground and aircrew, along with an option to purchase 125 additional aircraft at list price plus six-year airworthiness warranties

Whenever I change something in a file in Sublime Text, and then view the diff it's always the same. Is there a setting somewhere that determines how meld in Sublime is used? A: After using PTD (which was a real pain in the butt) I'm back to using: Sublime Merge Although Sublime Merge has a steep learning curve, it's great for merging and it's definitely worth the initial pain. Q: Should we have tags for GTA versions? Right now, we have three tags: GTA-5, GTA-IV, and GTA-3. I'd like to propose adding a tag for GTA: San Andreas. A: I think it's an interesting idea. It would seem likely to come up again, as there are both GTA IV and GTA III but there's no GTA: San Andreas. I don't have any objections, as I'm sure other mods will want to use the tag too, and I can't think of any other significant games with similar mods. There may be issues with copyright, though, so we might want to stick to only tagging mods or other game modifications, and GTA-IV could be renamed to GTA-IV: San Andreas. Chinese scientist admits making a mistake By IBT Staff Reporter On 12/21/11 AT 9:35 AM A Chinese scientist admitted on Thursday that she mistook DNA extracted from humans and not cells from mice when she reported that people could be bred for desirable characteristics such as intelligence, workmanship, sense of humor and smell. Ibrahim Hamidi, a biologist at the Chinese Academy of Sciences in Shanghai who worked on the experiments, told a government inquiry that he did not immediately question the method used by his former postdoc in 2008. He said when he saw the report describing the experiments with his name on it he became shocked and made a mistake. The Chinese Academy of 6d1f23a050
