In the below example, the command should update the column value to '3.00' and return the same row select * from table where id = 1234; My command is as follows but that does not return the row: UPDATE table SET value = '3.00' WHERE id = 1234 A: UPDATE table SET value = '3.00' WHERE id = 1234; 1. Field of the Invention This invention relates to a semiconductor device and its manufacturing method. 2. Description of the Prior Art In a prior art semiconductor device of the above type, the gate electrodes were made of a composite film of polysilicon and tungsten silicide (WSi) formed on the polysilicon, and used as gate electrodes by imparting with the function as a mask for making PN junctions as well as by bringing the surfaces thereof into contact with a metal silicide (MoSi.sub.2, etc.) formed on the surface of a portion of the semiconductor substrate to which a wiring was connected and by bringing the surfaces thereof into contact with electrodes of a storage capacitor. In the semiconductor device having this structure, in order to make the area of each gate electrode as small as possible, the thickness of the gate electrode film and the impurity concentration of the polysilicon are generally controlled to be reduced. Therefore, when the polysilicon electrode is connected to a metal silicide which is made of a material having a high resistivity, the polysilicon electrode is

What is the problem? I tried using the --force and -y options, but it still fails: $ tar -zxvf peter.rar -C. -y -F. tar: Removing leading `.' from member names tar: Error exit delayed from previous errors $.tar: Error extracting: Too many levels in path listing of header tar: Error exit delayed from previous errors A: It seems you are using an old version of tar from a repository or an abandoned mirror. Probably, you still have a checkbox somewhere in your system settings to connect to deprecated servers, which connects to the old site for tar packages, which are still there (if you ever used to be able to use the old site). I suggest you try the GNU tar in /usr/local/bin, which is the one my system uses. Mickey Mouses Mickey Mouses or Mickey Mouses (from the French Mousquetaire and the German Mucke, both versions are probably due to Mulcahey) is a card game for two players, or three to six with more people playing. Rules The goal of the game is to catch as many of the Disney Characters as possible. The game starts by shuffling four cards face down from the deck into the four wells, each one containing four more cards. The player to the left of the dealer takes his first card from the left well. The player may choose a card from any available well or another player's well. Each of the four hands then reveals a card, and the player tries to match it with the others that have been placed face down in front of him or her. As soon as a player matches a card, he or she places it on top of the pile in front of him or her. If the player has placed one of his or her cards already on top of the pile, another player may take that card or another player could play a card of his or her own. When a player's stock of cards is all used up, he or she flips a coin and the player who has the highest head wins the game. If both players have an equal number of cards, the person with the most cards wins. Mice of all kinds are naturally drawn to eat the hats of players, so players have to remember which wells are their own and which ones are the others'. If the "head" is on the bottom of the pile, it is more
